

Covid19 Prevention measures in Shanghai.

In Shanghai, we are currently in a rather positive position of being able to dine out. This is largely down to the preventive protocol in place to stop the spread of Covid19. A great deal of dining in Shanghai when eating Asian food is family style. In order to prevent contamination and second set of chopsticks will be placed in the centre of the table to dish out the different dishes. All restaurants in Shanghai also have strict government mandated health and safety policies in place.

When entering a restaurant or bar please provide your Health QR code. You will find this in your Alipay app. You will. Be required to upload your pictures along with your current passport. Once your code is green you are free to enter restaurants and bars throughout the city.

Please scan the QR code to access your ALIPAY health code.
